The court periodically schedules oral argument at law schools and universities throughout the Circuit. These cases are tentatively calendared for in-person oral argument during the September 10, 2024, North Carolina Central University, School of Law, oral argument session.

Any motions that would affect the scheduling of argument, including motions to submit on the briefs or to schedule oral argument in Richmond, Virginia, must be filed by 06/07/2024, or counsel must show that relief could not have been requested by that date. Motions must state whether opposing counsel consents to the requested relief.

Any conflicts that would affect the scheduling of argument and any additional cases counsel is tentatively scheduled to argue during this session must be identified by filing a Notice Regarding Conflict with Proposed Argument Dates (form available at www.ca4.uscourts.gov/court-form-fees) by 06/07/2024. The form should not be filed if counsel is available throughout the session and is arguing this case only.
